MERCHANTS ADOPT SALES TAX POLICY

Will Show Item as Added to Retail Price Starting
January 1

The retailers' occupation tax, generally known as the Illinois sales tax, will be shown as being added to retail prices by Antioch merchants starting January 1, it was announced last week following a conference of prominent retailers.

Notwithstanding the provisions of the statute that the tax items should be shown on all retail sales, many Antioch merchants heretofore have included the tax in their price quotations, or have ignored the item, "absorbing" the levy as a necessary and compulsory expense. This procedure was followed in the general belief that the sales tax would expire next July 1. However the recent enactment of the state legislature making the sales tax a permanent levy has prompted local merchants to comply strictly with the provisions of the law.

$50,000 Bungle.

While Illinois retailers have been wondering how to effect the collection of Gov. Horner's $36,000,000 sales tax from those least able to pay it, but who must purchase necessities, the story of the state administration's $50,000 has leaked out from Springfield. In establishing its speed record of 80 hours, the General Assembly in its 4th special session went so fast that it amended the wrong law in its effort to extend the state occupational tax beyond June 30, 1935. About $50,000 was appropriated to pay for the 4th special session, but indications are that its work will have to be done over again at the regular session in January. In brief, the bill amending the sales tax law, as introduced by Rep. Thomas P. Smetters of Rock Island, carried the wrong title, which was the title to the old 3 per cent sales tax, approved March 22, 1933, and later declared unconstitutional by a unanimous vote of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The loss of $50,000 spent for a useless special session of the state legislature should not greatly perturb Illinois taxpayers, for regardless of what anyone may think about Governor Horner the fact is now established that as a collector, he is the greatest governor the state has ever had.

Private funeral services were held this afternoon at two o'clock from the Strang funeral home for Mrs. Maude McMillen, mother of James McMillen, nationally known wrestler, who died Christmas day at St. Theresa hospital, Waukegan, where she had been a patient for several days. Long a resident in Antioch and Grayslake, she was widely known in the central and northwestern part of the county.

Besides the son, Jim, she leaves her husband, Willis; a daughter, Mrs. Wesley Faulkner, of Grayslake; her mother, Mrs. Sarah Seesholtz, and a brother, John, in Kansas. Rev. L. C. Crockett officiated at the services today, and interment was in Fort Hill cemetery near Volo.

THE NEW YEAR By GEORGE COOPER in Indianapolis News

A song for the Old
While its knell is tolled,
And its parting moments fly!
But a song and a cheer
For the glad New Year,
While we watch the Old Year die!
Oh! its grief and pain
Ne'er can come again,
And its care lies buried deep;
But what joy untold
Doth the New Year hold,
And what hopes within it sleep!

A song for the Old,
While its knell is tolled,
And the friends it gave so true!
But, with hearts of glee,
Let us merrily
Welcome in the bright, bright New!
For the heights we gained,
For the good attained,
We will not the Old despise;
But a joy more sweet,
Making life complete,
In the golden New Year lies.

A song for the Old,
While its knell is tolled,
With a grander, broader zeal,
And a forward view,
Let us greet the New,
Heart and purpose ever leal!
Let the ill we met,
And the sad regret,
With the Old be buried deep;
For what joy untold
Doth the New Year hold,
And what hopes within it sleep!

MAKES UNIQUE MAP OF UNITED STATES

Now that the Christmas rush is over, it may be asked "What does a postal clerk do with his spare time?" The answer, for at least one postal worker, and quite obviously representing many hours of painstaking effort, as well as talent and originality, may be found in the window of the Antioch post office, where a large map of the United States made entirely of postage stamps is displayed.

This unique map is the work of Oliver Hughes who has been an employee at the local post office for many years. A study of the map reveals that 39 varieties of postage stamps were used in its construction. Whenever possible commemorative stamps appropriate for the various states were used, as well as the ten recent national park issues.

"Expensive? The cost was not great," Mr. Hughes stated, directing particular attention to the fact that he had covered Texas' broad acres with stamps of the one-half cent variety—only 30 cents for the Lone Star state. "Oklahoma was where real extravagance was required—it cost $2.52 to show that state with 14 cent Indian head stamps," Hughes stated, but he helped balance costs when he represented Rhode Island for three cents and used one-half cent stamps for Michigan and North Carolina. New Mexico, another state of large area, didn't cost so much, covered by Benjamin Franklin stamps at one cent each.

Among the National Park stamps used were Yosemite for California, Grand Canyon for Arizona, Mt. Ranier for Washington, and Smoky Mountain for Tennessee, while the World's Fair stamps decorate Illinois, Nevada and Rhode Island.

The total cost for stamps was $19.73, and a few extra dollars were spent for background and framing. One of the chief difficulties, according to Mr. Hughes, was the task of securing all of the varieties of stamps. This required several months time, as there is scarcely a post office in the United States that would have all the different stamps stocked at one time, and as many of the stamps go out of general use after a brief time, it is doubtful whether Mr. Hughes' feat could ever be duplicated, except by getting the required varieties through stamp collectors.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase Webb and Emmett, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Burke and Bob, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sibley and children were the guests of Misses Mary and Deedie Tiffany of North Chicago, Christmas.

Mrs. C. Shutz and son of Bristol spent Sunday with the former's sister, Mrs. William Keulman.

New Features Are Planned for Legion's New Year Eve Party

Unique entertainment features will mark the 1935 New Year's eve party sponsored by the Antioch Post of the American Legion at Pasadena Gardens Monday night, according to committee members who have arranged for a large attendance at the annual event.

"This is the Legion's first venture of this kind," said Commander Otto S. Klass speaking of the new kind of entertainment that will be provided. For one thing, Klass declares there will be an indoor snowball fight, harmless, of course, and that there are to be other surprises, including the music which is to be furnished by musicians from one of the country's outstanding orchestras. Dinner will be served to guests at any time during the evening, the committee announced, and there will be more than the usual number of novelties, including noise-makers, hats, confetti. The admission price of 50 cents per person includes dinner, dancing and a real time with Legion men as hosts.

"HIRED HUSBANDS" COMING TO ANTIOCH

"Hired Husbands" will be the comedy presented at the Crystal theatre tomorrow night by the J. D. Rotnour Players who are staging a series of plays here in co-operation with Antioch business firms. Free tickets may be obtained from any of the firms whose names appear in this paper.

Mr. Rotnour announces a last minute special for next week—"Ramona," a dramatic farce taken from the old legend of Ramona and Alessandro. What was a tragedy in the old story turns out to be a brilliant comedy, unusual and unique.

The performances are drawing capacity houses. Curtain always prompt at 8:15.

"Sweet Adeline" at the Kenosha Sat. and Sun.

Five big acts of vaudeville, headed by King Brown, world wonder escape artist, will be presented on the stage at the Kenosha Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. James spent Christmas in Chicago with their son, Ralph James and family.

Antioch Jeweler Asks Investigation of Mystery Shot

Investigation as to the source of a mystery shot fired through a window of his store here Friday afternoon is asked by William Keulman, Antioch jeweler, who notified the sheriff's office shortly after a bullet, apparently shot from a 22 calibre rifle, had pierced the window before which he was standing. The missile struck the top of a radio and careened off breaking a vase which was on a shelf on the opposite side of the store. The bullet missed Keulman by inches. Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle sent Special Deputy Bob Webb to investigate.

Utilities Not Required to Pay Sales Tax

Springfield, Dec. 27—Decision of the state supreme court that utilities furnishing water, gas and electricity are not required to pay the 2 per cent occupational (sales) tax does not lower the enormous flow of revenue into the state treasury from that tax. Few of the companies had paid small sums into the treasury but most of them had set up reserves to be paid only if the court ruled the tax had to be paid.

If the court had ruled that utilities were subject to the tax, the annual revenue would have been increased about $6,000,000. When the sales tax bill was passed attempts were made to include all utilities, specifically, but the amendments were defeated. There is a probability the effort will be made again in the regular session when numerous attempts will be made to broaden the base of the tax.

Thus far, not the slightest hint has come from the Democratic administration as to any broad legislative program from the general assembly which meets January 9. Individual members of both parties have aired some of their pet projects, however.

One of the latest proposals is by Rep. Frank W. McClure, Democrat, of Abingdon, ardent foe of Governor Horner. McClure sent letters to all members, charging that the coming legislature will not be an independent body representing the people "but by patronage, powers and favors, will be coerced and driven."

To remedy this, McClure suggests that Illinois have but one house, of limited membership; non-partisan election of members; curtailment of the governor's appointing powers, and extension of civil service "to eliminate use of patronage in securing passage of favored bills in the assembly."

ALUMNI TEAMS PLAY FRIDAY

Former High School Stars to Vie for Basketball
Honors

Former stars of Antioch high school basketball teams will vie for alumni honors here Friday night at the local gym when an array of talent selected from teams of the last ten years will appear in contests scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock.

The oldest team will be selected from the classes of 1924 to '27, which is paired to meet a team made up of athletes from the classes of '30 and '31.

Following this game the men of '28 and '29 will play the alumni of '32 and '33. If time permits a play-off between the winning teams may be staged, and the winners of the final will be declared champions of the alumni association.

No game has been arranged where the former stars will meet Coach Suter's team of 1934-35.

Cerebral Attack Fatal to Trevor Man

Caesar Mixzen, 61, died at his home in Trevor, Wis., Wednesday following a cerebral hemorrhage.

He was born in Douglas, Isle of Man, in 1873, and came to this country several years ago. The deceased is survived by his wife and children. Funeral services will be held from his late home Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

Farm Hand Breaks Arm.

Falling while carrying a bale of hay, Robert Morrow, an employee on the Louis Glasman farm on Wilmet road, suffered a severe fracture of one of his arms nearly Wednesday morning. The man was brought to Antioch where he was attended by Dr. Warriner.

ASK STATE TO CONTROL LAKES

Lake and River Groups
Seek Improvement of Waterways

Flooding the legislature with petitions demanding state care, control and maintenance of the state's lakes and waterways, and particularly of the Fox river and its estuaries, is the method to be taken by the Waterways Improvement Association to "get something done" in the hope of avoiding what they term "the deplorable conditions of the past summer," according to the Elgin Courier-News.

This action was decided upon at a meeting December 13, at the Bridge ballroom in McHenry. Jack Baislow of Waukegan, Louis Schmidt and Al Bruneman of Elgin and Leonard Fowler of Carpentersville were appointed to draft the preamble and the resolution. J. D. Dewson of Chicago and C. K. Anderson of Antioch, president and treasurer of the association, will then undertake to promote the signing of the petitions. The group hopes in this way to secure 100,000 signatures and to assure an appropriation of $350,000 to be available at once for the lake and river improvement of the Fox valley.

The Elgin chapter of the Izaak Walton league is said to have completed work on a similar petition bearing more than 20,000 names.

Almost simultaneously with the launching of the move to secure state funds and state control of the waterways of the Fox valley and chain of lakes, comes the announcement from Secretary of War Dorn that 270 millions U. S. cash may be made available for waterway improvement within and adjacent to Illinois under the $3,000,000,000 construction program.

On the Upper Mississippi Valley division alone, which includes the Illinois river and its tributaries, Dorn declares it would be necessary to spend $238,211,000 with an additional $48,447,000 for land and damages. The war secretary warned that mention of the projects did not mean approval. In many cases where engineers have given their approval congress has not yet appropriated money.

Assayed as "Power" Project.

The proposals include dams and improvements for the Kankakee river, Illinois and Desplaines rivers, and Fox river from the mouth at Ottawa to the Wisconsin state line, canalization to provide six foot navigation, and certain power projects along the river also are mentioned. The total estimated for the Fox improvement was state to be $19,733,400 plus $416,000. All the power projects were marked "no market for power," and the last item—canalization—was marked "not justified at present."

So it would seem that in so far as the federal government is concerned the Fox Valley and lakes may expect no aid from the governmental agency unless the personnel of the present administration is brought to see the needs (other than in terms of "power") of the million and a half people dwelling in the Fox river valley.

At the meeting in McHenry it was said that the state director of the waterways division had declared that he can find no rule nor law which gives the division of waterways any control over the lakes and rivers. He has said, the meeting disclosed, that since the federal government relinquished control of the Fox river there has been no legislation by the state either to refuse or to accept the responsibility of the river. It was declared at the meeting that the Fox river at this time is, as a matter of fact, wholly within the hands of the abutting property owners. The petitions will ask that this situation be remedied and that some order be evolved out of the present confusion.

The association will go on record asking that police power be fixed and that regulations be adopted.

Miss Sarah Nichols Dies in Hospital

Miss Sarah Nichols, 88, long a resident of Lake county, died Wednesday in the Lake County Hospital in Waukegan. Ill. since October, 1933, when she fractured her hip, Miss Nichols never fully recovered from the shock of the accident which had rendered her almost helpless.

Miss Nichols was a sister of the late Mrs. Jefferson Smith. For 25 years she had lived with the family of W. H. Root at Lake Catherine, and was well known in this vicinity.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon and interment will be in Hillside cemetery, Antioch.

LAKE-RIVER IMPROVEMENT

NOT POWER PROJECT

A million and a half Illinois citizens are interested in the improvement of the Fox river and chain of lakes, not as related to power projects, but as a measure of sanitation, beautification, water level, or flood control, and navigation. The struggle to have the entire region made into the land of beauty and utility it should be has gone on for many years, but save for a few dams built at state expense, the improvements made to date have been inaugurated and prosecuted by the public spirited citizens of the region.

Food for thought is contained in an Associated Press story published in metropolitan papers Christmas day in which it is stated that the proposed improvement of the Fox river out of federal funds provided under the eight billion dollar construction program has been "blue penciled" with regard to dams—"no market for power," and again the canalization project that would provide six foot navigation from Ottawa to the Wisconsin state line carried the notation "not justified at present."

So much for the attitude of the federal government which seems to have gone off on a "power" spree and to view every improvement in terms of kilowatts or horsepower; also the ability of the engineers in Washington to understand local problems.

Relinquishing of control by the federal government of all but navigable waters in the state, leaves the Fox river and the chain of lakes without a vestige of hope for aid from the government except that it come through the agency that has just recently failed to see and recognize the necessity for improved conditions in this locality.

It seems reasonable to presume that the effort just inaugurated through the circulation of petitions to have the state legislature enact laws empowering the state to take over control of non-navigable waterways will meet with success. Improvement now would not only be one of the more worthwhile projects, which if neglected much longer will become an absolute necessity, but the work provided would relieve unemployment. And unemployment is acknowledged to be the principal aim of both the state and federal governments.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS FOR 1935

Newest business reports show an up-swing in trade in every part of the country. Early Christmas shopping was above the level of the past few years.

Middle West retail sales are about 20 per cent above those of a year ago. The South is up 50 to 100 per cent. Southwest gains amount to 20 per cent. The East is, roughly, up 10 per cent. The Pacific Coast has advanced 25 per cent.

Dun & Bradstreet reports that business, for the country as a whole, has improved 15 to 20 per cent, and forecasts gains for 1935.

WHO'LL GET THE BLAME—OR CREDIT

What promises to be the best "show" of 1935 will start early in January. Officially called the Congress of the United States, there is an excellent chance that for drama, excitement and thrills it will outdo Belasco.

Business is frankly worried, looks to Congressional action with fear and trembling. And it seems certain that the White House anticipates the session with something less than unmixed pleasure. The Congress is overwhelmingly Democratic. It is — if campaign speeches mean anything — committed heart and soul to the Roosevelt policies. But it likewise contains a number of men who, had it not been for the potent Roosevelt support, would never have had a chance of election to a first-class office, who know little of economics, less of industrial problems, and nothing of monetary affairs. These men are the "radicals" of the next Congress—and it is inevitable that they will worry able, conscientious and intelligent New Dealers about as much as they will worry conservatives. The President is like a ship captain in an emergency—whatever happens will be pinned on him, whether he could have taken a different course of action or not. And if the Congress, over the President's wish, passes dangerous and unprecedented laws, any ill effect they produce must eventually come home to the Roosevelt stoop.

YOU PAY

Who pays the tax bill? Everyone—the day laborer and the salaried employee and the millionaire.

Who pays the bulk of it? The middle-income group—those who earn just enough to adequately support their families, educate their children, and put a little away for old age. In other words, the bulk of it is paid by the average American citizen.

Why don't the very rich pay most of the tax bill? Because they can't—and here is one of the greatest tax fallacies ever perpetrated on the public. It's easy to say "tax the rich"—it's hard to find the rich to tax. Even in boom times, they are rare fauna, and extortionate taxes upon their incomes can pay for but a fraction of the cost of government. In depression times, they become still rarer—and almost the whole burden falls upon the ordinary citizen.

Who would benefit most from tax reduction?

The reader can easily answer that for himself. Today about 25 per cent of the national income goes to support government, federal, state and local. If you earn $2,000 a year, you must pass approximately $500 of it on to the tax collector. It goes when you buy your groceries, drive your car, pay your utility bill, take a train trip, attend a movie, or eat a meal in a restaurant. The cost of everything you need and use, everything you buy, is partly represented by taxes. Every tax must be passed on to the consumer—manufacturers and middlemen and retailers have no way of producing money out of the air.

No matter what the tax, it is diffused so rapidly all are hit by it.

CONFIDENCE COMES FIRST

The most potent force for recovery is confidence—confidence on the part of industry, property owners, investors. By the same token, lack of such confidence creates and perpetuates depression.

The San Francisco Call-Bulletin recently observed there are now some ten billion dollars ready to be loaned to business for improvement and expansion—when there is sufficient confidence to justify the risk. The money is now in the banks, but bankers would obviously be unfaithful to their trust if they loaned money without feeling strongly that they can do so in safety.

There are new signs that confidence is returning—that problems are being ironed out, that industrial leaders and public officials are reaching a common ground. If that is true, it will be a blessing for all the people.

THE ART OF MAKING FRIENDS

We have often heard it said that you can tell what a man is by the company he keeps. Some men keep company with all sorts of people. They are able to find something in every type that interests them. They are wise enough to properly appraise an individual and strong enough to be not dominated or ruled by any. Some men have the faculty of making friends easily. They have many friends. Others do not have the faculty of wide contact and have a smaller circle of friends. The fact that a man has a small circle of friends does not indicate that he is lacking in any of the qualities that one desires in his friends. He may be rich in these. It may merely mean that he lacks the faculty of approach only. We had an experience the other day that brought this home to us. We visited with and became acquainted with a man whom we had only slightly known. We discovered in him many delightful qualities that we never suspected were possessed by him. The experience brought to us the suggestion that it is often true that all about us are people who might, if we but knew them, contribute much to us. We often go about looking for these things when they are to be found all about us in the people we meet every day but whom we only know casually or superficially.

LAKE VILLA

Mr. and Mrs. Lanner entertained relatives from Chicago Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nader were guests of their daughter, Mrs. Fred Hamlin on Christmas day.

Rev. De Selmo is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from his studies at Garrett Biblical Institute at Evanston and enjoys being with his family. The dance sponsored by the firemen at the Village hall on last Tuesday evening to formally open the building to the public, was well attended and a good time reported. A local orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

Miss Lena Nelson left Monday to spend Christmas with her grandmother, Mrs. Patterson at St. Louis and to visit a friend, Miss Marjorie Beebe at Centralia, Illinois.

Miss Bojan Hamlin, a student at Kemper Hall, Kenosha, a school for girls, came home Thursday to spend her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamlin.

Delbert Sherwood, Tony Sciacero and Carl Nader were home from the CCC camp at Glenview to spend Christmas with the home folks.

The local fire department was called to the Hassman home just off Grand avenue toward Millburn, and on the E. E. Lehmman estate, last Thursday evening to extinguish a fire which finally burned the house to the ground. Fire was caused by an overheated chimney, and had too much start to be controlled. Mr. and Mrs. Hassman lost some furniture and clothing, and have moved to a house near Loon Lake.

If any child in this community was forgotten by Santa Claus this year, it would be strange, for with the community Christmas party sponsored by the Sunday school at the church on Saturday evening, and the German-American Christmas party at the Village hall on Sunday evening, we believe that each child was remembered with a gift besides candy, nuts, oranges and apples, for Mrs. Swanson, in charge of the Sunday school party, and Mrs. Jansen for the German-Americans, spared no effort to make it a happy time for all. The Primary department of the Sunday school put on a short program, followed by a pageant by the young folks of the Epworth League, coached by Mrs. De Selmo and done very well. The German-American Santa Claus handed out the gifts and each child responded with a recitation or a song. Both parties were well attended and successful in every way.

Watch now for dates of the Band-box theatre which will open its second season very soon.

Mrs. Beatrice Sherwood and Frances spent last Saturday in Waukegan. Mrs. McManus and son, Marty, were guests of Mrs. J. A. Pedersen and Mrs. Albert a few days this week. The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the Ladies' Aid room on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 2, for its regular meeting. Members please take notice.

Mrs. Bretschneider of Chicago spent the past week with her daughter, Mrs. J. O. Hucker.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kapple, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Kapple and children, Miss Frances Kapple, Mrs. Mary Kapple, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Druce and sons, all of Grayslake, also Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kapple, Edwin, Alleen, and Janice Kapple, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Avery, Paul, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sheehan and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hamlin and sons were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamlin on Christmas day at a family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nader had their entire family home for Christmas except Anna, Mrs. Alquist of Superior, Wis., who was unable to be present. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nader of Kenosha, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nader and sons of Grayslake, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nader and children of Lake Villa, also Carl of the CCC and Roy who is stationed in the aviation department of U. S. Government in South Carolina, besides Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Armstrong, also of Lake Villa, and Pauline and Ellen at home. It was a happy occasion, and the first time Henry had been able to be home since his accident last summer when he nearly lost his leg. He still uses crutches.

Fred Griffith died at the county hospital last Wednesday following a stroke. He had made his home with the Walter Schneider family here at various times during the past twenty years, and left no immediate family. Rev. DeSelmo conducted the funeral at Strang's undertaking parlor at Antioch last Saturday afternoon, and burial was at Antioch.

Charles Pistorious went Saturday to spend a week with his wife and daughters who are with Mrs. Pistorious' parents near Stevens Point, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. James Leonard enjoyed the presence of their children and grandchildren on Christmas day and the entire group had turkey dinner at Ben Hadad's on that day.

Operated by Mouse Power In the nineteenth century, a man in Scotland perfected a machine that was operated by mouse power. Running in revolving cages, the mice manufactured sewing thread, twisting and reeling 25 feet a day, writes W. T. Hogue, Denton, Texas, in Collier's Weekly. The inventor was building a mill to use 10,000 mice when he died. Apparently he never realized the work involved in putting them in and taking them out of 10,000 cages each day.

Summer Accidents Fatal

Summer is an especially hazardous season for fatal accidents. The mortality rate is 25 per cent greater than in winter or spring and 10 per cent higher than in fall.

You can't be a stranger to hard work and be a stranger to hard times.

Feeble-mindedness, epilepsy and some other traits are hereditary; acquired traits are not.

New Process "Washes" Oil of Impurities—Makes Cars Start Quicker

An ice coated engine in a test room with the temperature at zero, started instantly with a motor lubricant made by new Clearsol Process, which "washes" oil clean of natural impurities as you would wash dirt from your hands with soapy water.

STARTING of engines in winter has always been the car owner's worry. In many cases the trouble is due to improper lubricating oils, which causes piston rings to stick and valves to gum. A process to refine oil properly has been sought ever since the automobile has come into general use.

Recently the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company announced a revolutionary new way to refine oil that is expected to change the entire trend of present day refining, and to save trouble and dollars for motorists.

Chemists and engineers have long sought a way to completely remove from oil the harmful elements which nature imprisoned in crude millions of years ago. They have been striving to discover new methods which would supplant older systems of refining, complicated and unsatisfactory in many ways.

The new way known as Clearsol process uses powerful solvents to "wash" oil of impurities, as you would wash dirt from your hands with soapy water.

It is the most effective process that has ever been developed to produce all of the desirable characteristics for motor oils in one operation.

Just as conditions of operation in modern automobile engines impose high temperature stresses upon the oil used, so also conditions of low temperature winter operation require that the oil preserve its fluidity at low temperatures. Thus trends in automotive engine design, as well as new ideas as to the service expected from both engines and oils, demanded the development of motor oils having characteristics unheard of a few years ago.

The discovery of the process should be of great benefit and savings to motorists in upkeep and repairs. From the car owner's standpoint, Mobil Oil Arctic made this new way lasts up to 25 per cent longer; motorists will have no stuck piston rings, gummed valves or other annoying motor troubles due to the oil; it will greatly cut down carbon in the motor caused by improper lubrication.

Monument Gets Bath After 50 Years

"NOT bad, for 50 years' wear," observed William M. Greig, government engineer, left, as he used a magnifying glass to study the marble apex of the Washington Monument in the nation's capital. With him in the photograph taken 55 years ago, is James

Enlar, who is superintending the bath which is being given the monument with P.W.A. funds. The marble shaft, highest masonry structure in the world, was erected to the memory of the first President of the United States by the Washington Monument Society which laid the corner stone in 1848. Title to the monument passed to the Federal Government in 1877 and it was completed the following year.

Inside the monument an elevator and iron stairway of 900 steps afford access to the base of the apex. In the interior walls of the shaft are 173 memorial stones donated by various countries, states and societies.

THE town hall of the small village of Landers had no clock, but a bell in the cupola. The janitor was one of those fussy fellows who make a positive creed of doing everything on the dot.

He kept his watch set "railroad time," consequently when the old man entered the hall in the morning, every one knew it was exactly one minute of seven. The selectmen met there. The offices of the probate judge were on the second floor. The town hall had to be kept warm. When the janitor left at night it was exactly five minutes past six. At six the bell pealed out its only ringing for the day, and people set their watches by it.

Old Foxton had a cubby-hole of his own where he could rest and smoke when he wasn't busy. It was the custom on New Year's eve for the town hall bell to ring out at midnight. Though many enthusiastic youngsters would have liked to send the joyous clanging out over the roofs of the town, Old Foxton would have none of it. That day he stayed seventeen hours in the town hall. But nothing is settled or sure, even in a small, well-regulated village.

The cost of keeping the county poor for the past three months totaled $12,937.

ringing held a conference with a friend. "Have you ever thought," said this enterprising young man, "what a joke it would be to have the whole town late for a day?"

His friend cocked up his ears. "It's possible for one individual to send the lives of a thousand people into a tail-spin of unpunctuality . . . over a mere matter of ten minutes." They stared at each other, a slow grin growing on their faces. "You pull the right lever and then watch. In this case the right lever is old Foxton." They went into a huddle of secret planning.

At twelve that night they were to hold especial celebration. They could count on Old Foxton. The moment the big bell began to clang . . . that would be the first instant of the first minute of the New Year. Exactly! There was something fine and dependable in the thought of Old Foxton, they said. Gave you confidence in the human race. He was as right as Father Time himself.

At one minute of twelve, where parties were in progress, every one stopped talking. They waited expectantly. The minute hand crept on to twelve. Lips were opened in readiness to shout with the first ringing of the great bell. But no sound came clanging over the roof-tops . . . only the small tinkles of their own clocks chiming the hour.

SILENCE! Nothing more. They couldn't believe it. For forty years that bell had been rung precisely on the dot. The little clock-bells ceased their chimes. The minute hand crept by the hour. All the awaited thrill collapsed miserably.

"I'll tell you what it is," cried some one. "We're wrong . . . our time is fast!" They waited. At ten minutes past the hour the big bell sounded its twelve deep notes. Clocks were set back ten minutes. Even those people awakened from their sleep looked at their watches and set them right with the bell.

Next day confusion reigned—often annoying but not serious. Radio programs were tuned in ten minutes after their beginning.

Two solemn youths, unnaturally grave, were exhibiting their watches to this and that unconvinced citizen. "But you're wrong, both of you," declared every one. "We were all wrong. We know it because we set our clocks by the midnight bell."

The boys raised surprised eyebrows. "But we," they said, "have correct 'railroad' time. Nobody in Landers is right . . . but us!"

It came out at last. It had to, of course. Old Foxton sputtered to his wife. His wife told a neighbor. The news ran like wildfire. Though inclined to be scandalized at first, the whole town laughed. It came to be considered a capital joke . . . if never repeated.

Twenty minutes before midnight the janitor in his cubby-hole found himself bound, and not too roughly gagged. His watch was removed from his pocket and held before his eyes. The minutes ticked themselves away until twelve. The old man writhed in his bonds. Not a sound from the steple.

Five minutes past ten minutes past the hour. Then the slow clanging of twelve strokes.

Foxton never discovered who kept him in his chair or who rang the bell. Bandit-wise a handkerchief swathed all but the eyes of his jailer. When the last stroke sounded, the stranger unlocked the door, and threw the key through the transom. By the time the old man had freed himself there wasn't so much as a sound in the entire building.

"It's a good idea, just the same," remarked one solemn youth to another, "for a person not to be right all of the time!"

And then they laughed . . . but never told.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"In the Universe, including Man, Evolved By Atomic Force?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 23.

The Golden Text was, "Lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth. The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name" (Amos 4:13).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein. For he hath founded it upon the seas, and established it upon the floods" (Psalms 24:1, 2).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The compounded minerals or aggregated substances composing the earth, the relations which constitute masses hold to each other, the magnitudes, distances, and revolutions of the celestial bodies, are of no real importance, when we remember that they all must give place to the spiritual fact by the translation of man and the universe back into Spirit" (p. 200).

DUNCAN DEE woke, grunted and relaxed once more into a morning nap. Somewhere in his mind were two ideas. One was of complete satisfaction after an enjoyable two days in New York. The second pricked at him uncomfortably. Something he should remember, but couldn't. Oh . . . well! He sank gently back into full slumber.

At eleven o'clock, after breakfast in the house of his friends where he was staying, he became electrified. He had forgotten something. Something very important. A Christmas night dinner-dance that evening. He had been invited by Rosamond Tone, a girl he was quite mad about. How could he have forgotten? It seemed impossible. But Rosamond had telephoned him two evenings ago, exactly one minute before a hasty departure for New York. He had been delighted, charmed to take her. Then . . . that long freezing ride . . . finding a place to stay which did not cost too much, dressing, getting to a late party which was big and brisk, and went on and on.

until morning and breakfast. Then a few scant hours of sleep, another afternoon party outside the city . . . a sleet storm, and the sensible decision that he would not drive back in town for his evening clothes . . . but keep on going to the second informal engagement for the evening . . . a hundred and thirty miles in another direction, where he would stay all night.

So, here he was at eleven the next morning, a hundred and thirty miles from his evening clothes . . . and due in a few hours at a party forty miles in quite an opposite direction. This was the manner in which Duncan was wont to spend out his week-ends. Bedlam reigned in his brain.

It wasn't the party so much; it was the girl. Rosamond Tone was more than lovely—she was lovable. She was also the daughter of old Taurus Tone, the head of the company in which Duncan held a responsible but not impressive position. And there was that guy named Frank Nester, too, held a responsible but not impressive position in the same place. He, too, loved Rosamond, or at least paid her conspicuous attention. Mr. Tone glared at both of them. It was old Taurus' way; and you could like it or leave it. No one wished to leave it, certainly not Duncan Dee nor that Frank Nester fellow.

At noon Duncan called up Rosamond long-distance, to assure her he had not forgotten and would be there. Immediately then he began scouring the town for dress clothes. All the people he knew were going to dances that night. They needed their own. He began to feel silly and a little sick. But he contrived in the course of three hours to collect one pair of dress-suspenders, a white tie, and proper waistcoat. Another hour yielded a dress-shirt and pair of trousers. This was sheer triumph of personality. Somebody let him have studs and a collar. He'd have to wear his ordinary black shoes and socks. He still required a coat. He could not get a coat!

Duncan went to the dinner dance. He looked exceptionally happy and well groomed. Frank Nester was there. He also looked well groomed but far from happy. Rosamond, if not unkind, had been frugal in giving dances to him.

Old Taurus was there, snorting and suspicious. Once he grabbed Duncan's elbow. "See here, young man," he growled, "that coat of yours looks darned familiar, and a little large. Could it, by any chance, be one of mine?"

"Yes, sir!" said Duncan, looking Rosamond's father straight in the eye. That was the best way with old Taurus. "My own is in New York. I collected all the other things from friends. I came anyway. And Rosamond . . ."

"I thought so!" Taurus glared at him. "Well, it appears you have courage, and that you keep your wits about you. It should help you get along. Report to me tomorrow morning. We'll talk over that . . . er . . . opening I mentioned."

"Oh, sir . . . I'll tell Rosamond right away."

"You'll do no such thing!" Taurus roared.

But Duncan told her. Rosamond said she had already selected a sweet apartment and an egg-beater. "In case you asked me, you know."

Duncan kissed her and stated he must be very careful not to spill anything on her father's coat . . . and they kissed again.

Races Have Odor

It is quite possible that other races can detect the odor of the white race. Deniker, in his "The Races of Man," refers to the fact that certain travelers have asserted they could recognize a population by its odor. The author admits that some ethnic groups have their specific odor, which gets fainter with scrupulous cleanliness, but never disappears.

Dancing on the Ceiling

Up to a few years ago in the rural sections of the Tyrol in Austria, the "ceiling dance" usually ended each party. Balancing their partners upside down over their heads, the husky maidens would dance on the floor while their men danced on the ceiling—Collier's Weekly.

Blend Chimney Color

Frequently, a chimney seems to cut a house in parts. It is important, in painting a small dwelling in an attractive color scheme, to make the chimney an integral part of the picture. It may be painted with either stucco or concrete paint.

Coastal Zone Temperatures

The average summer temperature of the coastal zone is 95 degrees; that of the foothills, 78-79 degrees; that of the moderate elevations, 60 degrees, and that of the high elevations, 56 degrees.

Heredit

Jingoism

Jingoism is an expression which arose in England during the ministry of Lord Beaconsfield, 1874-1880. The term was applied to those who wished Britain to take an aggressive foreign policy. It originated in a music hall song.

Vieux Carre of New Orleans

The Vieux Carre of New Orleans is that section of the town whose limits correspond with those of the original city as laid out by La Tour and Pange in 1720. It was destroyed by fire in 1788 and 1794, and rebuilt mainly in the Spanish style.

The Dardanelles

The country around the Dardanelles straits belongs to the Turkish republic. But by the terms of the Lausanne treaty the straits are thrown open to the merchantmen and warships of all nations.

The Indian Head Penny

No one person posed for the design on the Indian head penny. The Treasury department always states that the designs are idealized conceptions of the artists. Very often several models are used.

Naming Mount Mitchell

Mount Mitchell, 18 miles east of Asheville, N. C., is named for Prof. Ellis H. Mitchell. In 1857, while determining the height of the mountain, he lost his life by a fall from a precipice. The body of the scientist is buried at the summit.

Etching Glass

Many things are discovered by accident. In 1870 some aquafortis fell by accident on the spectacles owned by an artist named Schwanhard. The glass was corroded and this taught him how to make a liquid to etch figures upon glass.

Egypt's Mickey Mouse
Among Egyptian records over 3,000 years old have been found drawings on a scrap of papyrus of a cat acting as a goosehead, with a hooked stick, and with geese waddling along under the cat's control—the equivalent of the Mickey Mouse of today.

More Streamlining Shown in New Cars

NEW YORK CITY (Special).—What will the new 1935 cars look like and run like?

These are the questions that motorists are asking today, with news leaking out of Detroit to the effect that most of the new models which will be displayed at the 1935 Automobile Show will be greatly influenced by the Airflow trend in streamlining.

Probably the most advanced of next year's streamlined cars will be the new Airflow De Soto, which was displayed to automobile dealers recently at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York.

The car is similar to the present one in most respects, but has been styled considerably smarter, with a narrower radiator which makes the car look even longer—and faster. It is completely streamlined, and has many features which make it unique among all automobiles.

Although complete details of the new Airflow were not revealed, it was stated that the motor has a number of new features that give it greater performance and speed, yet added economy.

Another De Soto model will be announced later which is expected to be considerably lower than the Airflow in price. Information regarding it was not revealed, but that it will have many of the features of design and construction of the new model, just shown, was predicted.

Edison Disliked Decorations

Upon Thomas Edison's second trip to Europe the French Telephone company offered him a decoration which required that he wear a long sash. But the Ohioan fairly refused with the assertion that he couldn't "stand for that." Persuaded by his wife, he did however consent to wear the little red button of the League of Honor. But whenever he saw any American approaching he would slip the button into his pocket for fear, as he said, "they might think I am trying to show off."

Some Great Musicians

A HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Midnight, December 31, 1934! The bells burst forth into a joyful clangor. The strains shriek and the whistles scream. At many gay night parties everyone drinks a toast to the New Year. But, more quietly, at home many couples turn to each other soberly and ejaculate with heartfelt fervor: "A Happy New Year to you, my dear!"

What will the New Year bring forth? Well, for one thing, it will bring forth ten hundred and ninety-five meals, if you are fortunate. Did we hear someone wince? Perhaps they don't consider themselves so fortunate to have to plan ten hundred and ninety-five meals!

That is the reason why we are going to try to lighten their burden by printing some succulent recipes which should give them a good start toward solving this perplexing problem. There are only a certain number of foods, after all. But of the tempting combinations of them there are no end.

Some Winter Soups.

A good, hot, sustaining soup is fine winter provender. So here are recipes for a couple to start with. The first is for that good old American standby,

New England Clam Chowder

Dice one-half pound salt pork, and saute' with one medium sized sliced onion. Add one and a half cups diced potatoes, saute' a few minutes, and then add one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, a pinch of thyme, one-eighth teaspoon celery seed, two tablespoons chili sauce and one cup water. Add the chopped clams from a small can containing one cup of clams and three-fourths of a cup of liquor, and one tablespoon of flour smoothed with two cups cold milk, and stir until slightly thickened. Add the clam liquor last so that there will be no danger of curdling the milk. Serve with plain crackers or pilot crackers. Serves four.

Or if you prefer a lighter soup to start dinner, try this

Tomato Bouillon with Mushrooms

Stew for five minutes the contents of a one-quart can of tomatoes, two cups water, liquor from one can mushrooms, one and one-fourth teaspoons salt and one teaspoon paprika. Add two bouillon cubes, dissolve them, then strain mixture. Add two slightly beaten egg whites and two crushed egg shells. Boil one minute. Let stand half an hour to settle, then strain through a double cheese cloth. Add one-half cup chopped mushrooms saute' in two tablespoons butter, and reheat but do not boil. Serves eight.

Sustaining Salads.

And here's a succulent and sustaining salad that you can serve at a buffet supper.

Turkey, Sweetbread and Pineapple Salad: Toss lightly together, with mayonnaise to moisten slightly, one cup cold, diced sweetbreads, one-half cup white grapes, skinned and seeded, one-half cup diced canned Hawaiian pineapple and salt and pepper to taste. Pile on a large chop plate or in a big salad bowl, well garnished with lettuce. Serve from buffet table. Serves eight.

To make a salad the main course of a meal, it should contain plenty of proteins. Here's one that does and tastes delicious.

Meat and Cucumber Mold: Soften one tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons cold water and dissolve in one cup boiling canned tomato juice. Add one teaspoon lemon juice and salt and pepper to taste. When cool and beginning to thicken, add one-half cups finely cut meat, one cup diced cucumbers and two tablespoons chopped pickle relish. The meat may be one cup ham plus one cup chicken (the contents of a 6-ounce can), or equal quantities of chicken, and veal, ham and veal or any such combination. Pour into wet oblong mold and chill. Turn out on platter, and garnish as desired. Serve in slices. Serves eight.

A Winter Dessert.

A nice warming dessert to end a meal with in winter is the following Steamed Oatmeal Pudding: Mix together one cup uncooked oatmeal, half the contents of a 1-pound can mince meat, three tablespoons corn syrup, one-fourth teaspoon salt and two-thirds cup milk, and let stand an hour. Add one tablespoon melted butter, one-half teaspoon soda dissolved in a little hot water, two tablespoons dry crumbs mixed with one teaspoon baking powder and two well-beaten eggs. Pour into buttered pudding dish and steam one and a half hours. Serve hot with hard sauce. Serves six.

The Double Cross

The double cross is known as the cross of Lorraine or the patriarchal cross, which dates back to the Ninth century, when it became the emblem of the eastern branch of the Christian church. It symbolizes hope and humanity and was adopted as the badge of the war against tuberculosis in 1902 at the International Conference on Tuberculosis in Berlin. In 1906 it was formally adopted as the emblem of the National Tuberculosis Association.

What Vocation Shall My Boy Choose?

By J. F. Witkowski,

Principal, School of the Radio, International Correspondence Schools, Associate Member, Institute of Radio Engineers.

We live in a changing world. Opportunities for success in the future will differ from those in the past. A young man's wise choice of his life work may do much to determine success or failure. How shall he choose?

The Radio Engineer

RADIO engineering embraces not only the broadcasting of programs and the transmission of messages, but many applications of radio science which are still largely unfamiliar to all but the expert.

The possibilities of television are rapidly becoming better understood and the day when a television set can be installed in the home seems to be not far distant. Radio beacons are guiding the aviator by night. Research is turning to the radio tube to provide constant indication of a plane's altitude above the earth and of its approach to a mountain side or another plane. The tube controls the speed and security of express trains, is finding its way into the textile industry, the automobile industry and into mining where it is used to indicate the location of mineral deposits.

Today no one can foresee how far the development of radio will proceed or what new directions it may take. It seems certain, however, that the developments of the future will be no less important than those of the past. It seems equally certain that as the future of radio unfolds it will offer the technically trained young man a field of never failing interest, and opportunities for achievement which will be limited only by his own ability.

Two courses are open to the young man who chooses radio engineering as a career. He can acquire his technical training by attending an engineering school at one of the universities, and then proceed to its application. If this is impractical, he can seek a beginner's position in some branch of the radio industry and acquire his technical knowledge along with his practical experience, by study in spare time. Whichever course is chosen, hard and persevering study will be required, for the technical problems involved are so complex that real success can come only to the thoroughly trained man.

Difficulties mastered become stepping stones.

Six-Day Bike Riders Praise Safety League For Children

Members of Three-In-One Safety League hear Bobby Walthour, popular racer, stress the importance of safety in bicycle riding.

NEW YORK, (Special)—Bicycle riding is not only the healthiest but also the safest form of sport for children, in the opinion of members of the international riding teams who participated in the recent six-day bike race at Madison Square Garden.

However, it was agreed by the bike riders that children should be taught how to ride and should be familiar with traffic rules. They praised the Three-In-One Safety League for the work it has done in promoting safety for bicycle riders through its membership in all parts of the United States. The league now has more than 100,000 members.

Bobby Walthour, one of the international riding stars, in accepting honorary membership in the Safety League, said he believed that careful observance of the Add tomato soup and water and continue stirring until the mixture is smooth. Serve as a sauce with the hot sliced turkey.

Baked Stuffed Pork Tenderloin.

3 pork tenderloins, melted butter, 2 cups crumbled toasted bread, 1/3 cup boiling water, 1 egg beaten lightly, 1/4 cup butter, 1/2 small onion, minced, 1/2 teaspoon minced parsley,

Dr. Wilson G. Smillie Explains Colds Control

America's most prevalent disease in winter is the common cold. This simple illness is very often ancestor to many more serious maladies. Practically everyone has colds; their control is a serious problem in all families.

It will be good news to our readers therefore, that Dr. Wilson G. Smillie, Professor of Public Health Administration, Harvard University School of Public Health, has written a series of articles on the control of colds for this newspaper. They will be published soon through special arrangement with Health News Service, Inc.

Dr. Smillie is one of the foremost authorities in this country on colds. He has studied the problem for a number of years and the advice he has to give is of immediate and practical value. Look for these articles.

Making Emery Wheels

Emery wheels can be made by mixing about one ounce of shellac to a pound of emery. Use finely powdered shellac and add a small portion of rosin, a piece about the size of a walnut, to an ounce of shellac, and a piece of old vulcanized india-rubber about the same size, to give toughness. These are well mixed and melted together.

The Word "Scamp"

The word scamp originally signified a traveler, but three hundred years ago when a man traveled he generally had a good excuse for doing so, for few left home save when compelled, and to be a traveler was practically equivalent to being a rogue.

Enjoying the Fortune

Jud Tunkins says a vast fortune enables a man to sit in a rocking chair on a front porch. Others can enjoy the same luxury. Rocking chairs are cheap and front porches can always be borrowed.

THE LAWYER EXPLAINS

By Attorney Bernard J. Juron

A NEW TRIAL
Many times references appear in the newspapers of a person obtaining a new trial. This has led many people to believe that if the case they are engaged in does not result in satisfaction to them they need simply ask for a new one. This belief is erroneous. The law on this question is quite complicated as it applies to trials in the Circuit or County Courts.

The power to grant a new trial by jury or otherwise is entirely within the discretion of the trial judge with certain legal provisions to protect the litigant against abuses of such a discretion by the trial judge. It is true in almost all cases that the losing party asks for a new trial, but it is also true that a new trial is granted in a very few of the cases tried. The trial judge will grant a new trial if it can be shown that there is newly discovered evidence of sufficient importance, which, if properly introduced in the case, might result in a different judgment or finding.

A request for a new trial is called a motion. During the argument of a motion for a new trial, all of the evidence heard in the case is reviewed, and if it can be shown to the trial judge that he erroneously admitted or denied certain evidence, a new trial can be granted. There are several other features entering into this question which are purely technical and would serve no useful purpose here.

If a new trial is refused, the party aggrieved can attempt to obtain a new trial by appealing to the higher courts. This requires the furnishing of an exact copy or originals of all the papers in the case, together with a transcript of all the testimony.

The upper courts then review the entire case for the purpose of determining whether any error occurred. In the event of an error, the upper courts "reverse" the finding and order a new trial. In some instances, the upper courts can not only reverse the finding of the lower court, but enter a finding, based upon their own interpretation, and make a final adjudication further trial.

tion of the litigants' rights without. In the next issue we shall take up the question of Habeas Corpus.

A Gift for Santa

By Frances Grinstead

"FELICIA, I forgot to bring anything for your Uncle Hurry!" Father, mother, and daughter-halfway-through-high-school were in a huddle in the pantry, with the kid brother Ripley ("Rip" for short) hovering curiously beyond the door.

"He won't care, Dad." The pretty brunette girl relieved her father of his bundles. "With his radio act going over in a big way he can buy anything he likes. I hope he remembers a wrist watch with a little diamond is nicer than a wrist watch with none."

"Whatever he gives you, Felicia, act as if it's what you want most," her mother warned. "Horrigan would rather be appreciated than anything else in the world. He knows I like pretty negligees. I let him know how I enjoy his presents."

"I was trying to land that contract with Davidson," the father explained, "and I spent most of the evening with him at the McAlpin. When I left there was barely an hour to shop. I didn't dare take a late train, knowing we still had to decorate."

"Did you get the new ornaments?" Mother was pulling at a knobby package.

"Here, don't bother that. It's this one." Father tried to take off his muffler while watching the parcels, with eight-year-old Rip calling, "Aren't you even going to say 'Hello, Dad?'"

"Sure, son! I was helping Santa with his pack, that's all."

"Santa, humpf! Did you get my bicycle?"

"We'll see! We'll see!" As he went upstairs, trailed by boyish impatience, the words floated back, "I simply forgot Hurry. There'd have been time if I'd—"

"Felicia can go to the haberdasher's right here," his wife solved the matter. "The important thing is to get the tree finished and the gifts spread under it before Hurry comes. He always admires my tree. Felicia, buy him one gift from your father and me, and one from you and your brother."

"What would Uncle Hurry like, mother?"

"M-m-m. He has everything he needs, and he never mentions anything he wants. Ask the clerk to suggest something."

The silver star was aglow, the last fat Santa Claus clinging to a limb, Felicia's purchases had been hastily wrapped in golden and green tissue, when the door burst open admitting Horrigan Carter of "Hurry and Haste" radio comedy team. His arms were full of red, green, and holly-papered parcels, and behind him came the cheery chauffeur, his arms full, too.

"Drop 'em, James my lad. Now hurry to that girl of yours and make hay while the snow falls. Come for me at eleven. Here, don't you need a little extra? It's Christmas." Uncle Hurry put a bill in the man's hand and clapped the door shut.

"Felicia, what a lovely tree! You always have something original. Sophia. Henry, how's business? And," (looking around) "where's Rip?"

"Ripley!" called Felicia, flinging open the dining room door.

In the midst of discarded outer wrappings, a red-faced small boy was struggling with tissue and ribbons.

"Aw, gee, Felice. I wanted to tie it myself. Aw, gee! Why'd you have to go open the door? I spent all the money I earned cuttin' lawns last summer and shovellin' snow this week, an'— Aw, gee, it's a fine gift. If I could get it fixed, it would look swell."

Uncle Hurry jumped to close the door. "Go ahead, old fellow. We won't look."

"It's no use. Everybody's saw." Rip came toward them with the gift protruding from its wrappings. It was a salad bowl with a wooden mixing spoon.

"Who's it for, Ripley?" mother asked.

"Uncle Hurry!" Felicia began to laugh. "What a gift for Uncle Hurry! Why, Rip, you give salad bowls to ladies, not men."

Rip looked disconsolate. "He said he wanted it. We were passing that shop where they sell old things and he said— you did, Uncle Hurry, you said, 'Jove what a quaint salad bowl! I'd like that.'"

"Of course I did. Next day when I went to buy it for my kitchenette they said it had been put aside for someone. It's great to get it this way!"

"I guess even Santa Claus would rather what he wanted was given to him than to buy it for himself," said Rip wisely.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

By Katherine Edelman

HAPPY and prosperous New Year!" All day the words had been flung at Bob Cameron; everywhere he went they echoed in his ears. He wanted to shut them out, to forget that a New Year was beginning.

Last night, in summing up the old year, he had come to the conclusion that he was an utter failure, that he might as well discard the idea of becoming a writer. Every story that he had sent out had come back. It was true that a few editors had encouraged him—one of the best known in the country had told him to keep on, that he had a fine literary style. But none of them had kept his offerings.

Bob felt that the wisest thing he could do was to chuck the whole thing at the beginning of the New Year. Yet down in his heart he knew that writing was a part of him; that it would be an almost impossible task to keep away from the untidy desk back in his den. But he would have to do it, a man couldn't hold a girl to a promise, with nothing to offer her but failure.

Bob knew that Dorothy Trent was back of his resolution to quit the writing game. He loved Dorothy and she loved him. They had been engaged since their senior year at Northwest. It was time that he should say something about marriage; it was not fair to hold her as he was doing. He would have to get a position that would enable him to keep a girl like

"It Will Be Glorious to Help You Work Out Your Career."

Dorothy; he couldn't ask her to exist on the meager pittance he was getting from the Fryor company. He had taken the job simply because it gave him so much time for writing, earning nothing at the time for the small salary and the lack of opportunity that it held.

The unhappiness brought by his resolve showed plainly in the weary droop of Bob's shoulders and the tired lines on his boyish face. He found it hard to join in the small talk and fun of the New Year's party that was going on. If Dorothy hadn't been so insistent upon his coming, he would have remained away, for he was in no mood for frivolity. And now, an even deeper bitterness had crept into his heart, as he watched the crowd pay tribute to Everett Elstun, the literary lion of Raymondville.

He wondered how Dorothy had got Elstun to her party; he was a bit of a recluse and seldom mingled with the crowd. He was surprised as he saw him walking across the room, with an eager look upon his face.

"How are you coming with your writing?" he asked.

Bob gave a mirthless laugh. "I've just decided that as a writer I'm a pretty good head-carrier. The fact of the matter is, Mr. Elstun, I've made a New Year's resolution to quit."

"Giving up in a hurry?" Elstun said, a trifle sharply.

"I've been trying for almost two years," Bob answered.

"And you think a few hours every now and then for two years should have brought you success? Listen, boy, I was writing full time for more than three years before I got a hint that I wasn't wasting ink."

In a moment Bob was confessing his real reason for quitting. Elstun listened quietly, then he spoke. "I, too, had that problem," he said. "There was a girl; I felt sure she wouldn't be satisfied with what I had to offer. Fortunately, I found out in time she wanted to share my struggles. Maybe the girl you love feels the same way."

Bob found that Elstun was right. Dorothy was agitated at the thought of his giving up the work he loved, or doubting that she would want to share his poverty. "It will be glorious to help you work out your career," she assured him.

So a new resolution was made that called for success instead of failure. The New Year was going to bring Bob the acceptances that he craved.

Pretty Good World

Scientists studying evolution predict that mankind will become perfectly adapted to its environment in about 5,000,000 years. If it is going to take as long at that, we can afford to yield briefly to the holiday spirit and say blithely that this is a pretty good world—that for one so young it has done a good deal and has never behaved itself better than right now.—Woman's Home Companion.

and subject to federal control, while the Fox river is declared not navigable and not subject to federal control. At the same time the state declares it has no authority "either to give or withhold permits." This is another situation that proves confusing to the association.

If the appropriation of $350,000 is granted, Grass Lake will be dredged along the eastern shore, another channel will be cut through Lake Marie, and all obstructions to navigation will be removed, Mr. Anderson stated.

The legislature will also be asked for an annual appropriation providing adequate maintenance for these improvements.

Mr. Anderson pointed out that Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota have become "lake minded" and that those states are enriched each summer because their spots of beauty, carefully maintained and hugely exploited, bring each year a stream of tourists. The association and the Isaak Walton league petitions will be presented together.
